Peninsular Coal Heater

These heaters are constructed so as to get every possible heat unit out of the fuel consumed. This is done by taking the air in over the top of the fire and burning all the gases in the air which in other stoves escapes through the flue. This surely means a lot with the high prices of fuel.

Stove Man Here For the Sale

For the purpose of assisting in conducting the sale of Peninsular stoves, Mr. Glenn H. Friedt, of Detroit, Mich., a representative of The Peninsular Stove Company, is in Fairmont this week. He will be pleased to tell all callers about the merits of the make of stove that he represents. Mr. Friedt is a practical stove man and has been brought up in the business. He has been affiliated with it during his entire lifetime.

In part, Mr. Friedt said: "The indications are that Peninsular stoves will raise ten per cent within sixty days. This is due to the increased cost of labor and materials. The steel strike has interfered with the manufacturer securing adequate materials to keep abreast with production. For this reason there is a considerable shortage of stoves this year. Any person needing a stove should secure one at once and avoid the uncertainty of conditions."

For Any Old Rickety Stove We Will Allow

TEN DOLLARS

Ten Dollars Allowed For Old Stove on Any New Peninsular Gas Range Coal Heater or Gas Heater

The Peninsular Stove Company, Detroit, the largest stove factory in the world, as an inducement to get a new Peninsular Stove in every home in the City of Fairmont and vicinity has agreed to make an allowance of $10 on a new Peninsular for any old stove.

They do this knowing that a Peninsular user is their best advertisement and at the same time this gives the customer the benefit of money other manufacturers spend in costly magazine advertising.

In addition to this very generous allowance made by the factory, as a still further inducement to buy during this week, we will allow a special cash discount of 20%. Just think of it. This offer is made in spite of the shortage of stoves and at a time when stoves are needed. No other merchant has ever made such a generous offer. However, we feel we will make up for profits lost in the good will gained.

In the beginning, our stoves were very low priced on account of money saved by buying in car lots.

Best Baker Built

Buy a Peninsular coal range and you will always bake good bread. Housewives all over the country say that the ventilated oven, which permits fresh air to pass through the stove and carry the odors out of the oven, is a safeguard against sour and soggy bread.

With the nation-wide reputation back of the Peninsular you cannot go wrong on this proposition.

This stove is equipped with a hot blast fire box which consumes the gases in the coal and consequently is a fuel saver.
